Goldfish, Canaries, Dog,
Found Alive in Wreckage

EDWARD PAGE and his wife were hurt on Tuesday when their house, which adjoined the collapsed American Theatre in Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, was damaged, but their pets—three goldfish, two canaries and a fox terrier—were not hurt.

Mr. Page was able to search the ruins of his home yesterday. He found the goldfish under an overturned bureau. Their bowl had turned over and spilled them out, but a sea fern had been saturated by the water and they were lying in it, alive. The canaries, their cage bent and twisted, were dug out of the wreckage shortly afterward, and a little later the dog was found under a heavy beam, frightened but unhurt.

Five contractors who had been doing work on the American Theatre, a moving picture house on Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, which collapsed Tuesday afternoon, were arrested yesterday by order of Harry E. Lewis, District Attorney of Kings county. They were arraigned in the Gates avenue court on a charge of manslaughter and were held in $10,000 bail each. The prisoners are Vito Cannella, 1393 Herkimer street, Brooklyn; Charles Cannella, 1315 Herkimer street, Brooklyn, and Michael Cannella, 381 Dill place, Glen-dale, Queens, members of the masonry and building firm of Cannella Brothers, and Charles J. Pluchham, 2083 Lexington avenue, and James J. Kavanaugh, 12 Kingsland avenue, Elmhurst, Queens, structural iron work contractors.

District Attorney Lewis said that other arrests probably would follow within a short time, as he intends to arrest every person who in any way might be responsible for the collapse of the building. The general contractors and owners of the building, Sylvester Rosenthal of 1331 Pacific street, and Samuel Moscovitz of 599 Putnam avenue, both of Brooklyn, went before Justice Ship of the Supreme Court on a writ of habeas corpus and were released in $15,000 bail each. They were arrested shortly after the collapse, and spent the night in jail.

The wreckage of the theatre is being kept as nearly as possible as it was when it fell, by order of the District Attorney. Policemen are guarding the place, and no one is permitted to approach it without an order from Mr. Lewis. Albert E. Kleinert, Superintendent of Buildings in Brooklyn, said last night that because of this his inspectors have not been able to examine the wreckage, and that he could express no opinion as to the cause of the collapse until he had seen their reports. The Building Department, Mr. Kleinert said, had exercised all the care in its power in the examination of the building during construction, visiting it at frequent intervals. So far as he has been able to determine the plans as approved by the Building Department were being carried out, although Mr. Kleinert called attention to the fact that it would have been possible for the contractors to use inferior material to cover it up before the inspectors came around again. The building, he said, would not have collapsed if the plans as approved by his office had been carried out.

The death list from the collapse was increased to seven yesterday when the body of George Smith, a steel worker of 1110 Manhattan avenue, Brooklyn, was taken from the ruins. Firemen searched the ruins all day without finding any more bodies, although it is believed that the body of a bricklayer named McNeil is still under the wreckage. McNeil was working on the building and has not been home since the collapse.

Wants to Come Back Jolly Soon

ADMIRAL LORD BEATTY,
Hero of the battle of Jutland, who returned to England yesterday after several weeks in the United States.

SERVICES SUNDAY FOR WHITTLESEY

Infantry, to which regiment the "Lost Battalion" belonged.

The organizations most closely associated with Col. Whittlesey in his lifetime all will be represented. These include the Seventy-seventh Division Association, the American Red Cross, the Military Training Camps Association, the Williams Club and the Harvard Club. The programme for the memorial was arranged last night at a meeting at the Williams Club, attended by John E. Pruyn, his close friend and business associate, and Capt. George C. McMurry among others.

Resolutions adopted by the directors of the New York County Chapter of the American Red Cross, whose annual membership enrollment was recently accomplished under Col. Whittlesey's leadership, say:

"Whereas the American Red Cross has always received from Lieut.-Col. Whittlesey the utmost sympathetic consideration whenever his counsel has been sought, and

"Whereas the great help which Lieut.-Col. Whittlesey rendered to the American Red Cross has been in a spirit so characteristic of him, so unassuming of self in the midst of pressing affairs and so beyond the call of duty,

"Be it resolved by the board of directors of the New York County Chapter of the American Red Cross that it records its consciousness of the great loss which has been sustained and its sense of obligation for the renewed inspiration to service which his sublime example will be."

Copies of the resolution have been sent to Col. Whittlesey's family, to the American Legion and to the law firm of White & Case.

The day on which Col. Whittlesey bought his ticket for Cuba was established yesterday by means of a stub in his check book, found in the offices of the law firm. It was November 21, five days before he sailed. This added another item to accumulated evidence of premeditation. R. F. Little of White & Case said that so far as he could learn not a friend of Col. Whittlesey's had been found who knew or suspected that he was going away.

His will and insurance policies may be in a safe in the office of White & Case. It was discovered yesterday that he had left a bundle of papers there. They were not examined, as J. B. Pruyn, executor of the will, was out of town. Mr. Little said he believed that Col. Whittlesey's estate was not large. He had served the usual lawyer's apprenticeship at small pay and had too recently acquired a lucrative practice to have saved a great deal.

"But no matter what his earnings were," Mr. Little added, "he made it a rule to live on that sum and to save something out of it. Of one thing you may be sure: He didn't owe anybody. He paid as he went, and had a horror of debt. I don't know how much life insurance he carried. It may have been $15,000 or $20,000, but that's just a guess."

According to Private Theodore St. Pierre, who is assigned to telephone duty at Fort Tilden, Rockaway Point, a deep voiced man who said he was "Col. Charles Whittlesey," called the fort at 8 o'clock on Saturday night and asked if a firing squad could be obtained for service at the funeral of a war veteran who had died in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn. St. Pierre referred the in-

ARGONNE HERO'S BODY INTERRED THIRD TIME

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—The body of William H. Campbell, 26, who was killed in the battle of the Argonne Forest in September, 1918, was buried for the third time here to-day.

The body was first interred overseas. On its arrival in this country three weeks ago it was claimed by a Chicago woman as that of her husband and taken to that city, where burial was made. The woman then made application for war risk insurance.

Up to that time Mrs. Mabel Hechel of Cleveland, Campbell's sister, had been drawing the insurance. She had been Representative John C. Sparks of Columbus, who was a Brigadier-General in the Thirty-seventh Division, of which Campbell was a member, interested. It was found that the first name of the Chicago man was not William.

The body was disinterred again, identified as that of the Cleveland soldier and sent here, where it was buried with military honors.

1,000 Attend World Peace Fellowship Meeting.

The World Peace Fellowship held a meeting in Town Hall last night, attended by more than 1,000 persons, at which most of the audience signed pledges they would never engage in a war, offensive or defensive, whether it be by bearing arms, making or handling munitions, voluntarily subscribing to war loans or laboring to set others free for war service.

Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram was chairman of the meeting, and addresses were made by the Rev. Norman Thomas, associate editor of The Nation; Rabbi Judah Le Magnien and the Rev. Paul Jones, former Bishop of Utah.

EARL BEATTY SEES RESCUE ON SAILING

Longshoreman, Pulled Into Water by Hawser, Saved by Barbados Swimmer.

PRAISES ARMS PARLEY

Sorry to Go and Will Come Back 'as Soon as I Jolly
Well Can.'

Earl Beatty, First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, who has acted as naval adviser to the British delegation at the conference on armaments, sailed yesterday for home aboard the White Star liner Adriatic, standing on the bridge beside Capt. Hamblen, the skipper, as the liner drew out in stream.

He witnessed the rescue of a negro longshoreman, Ernest Williams, by a gallant black Barbadian, Albert Wolcott, just after the lines of the ship were cast off. Williams was caught in the heaving line attached to a bow hawser and dragged overboard. He shouted for help as the hawser and the line were hauling rapidly through the river toward the side of the liner. More than a thousand persons on the pier saw him struggling to free himself.

Chief Officer Frank, standing at the ship's bow, yelled to the men at the drum of the steam winch around which the hawser was coiled to cut the rope. They did something better, throwing the turns of the hawser off the drum and overboard. Williams was almost exhausted when Wolcott, the Barbadian, jumped into the dock and made for Williams with the national energy of a clever West Indian swimmer.

Rescuers Cheered.

He grasped the weary Williams around the neck and towed him along the pier, to which both were hauled by longshoremen, to the accompaniment of cheers from ship and shore. Williams was taken to the office at the end of the pier fagged out, and his hardy rescuer, although from a semi-tropical island, walked off dripping as if he did not mind the chill of this latitude after a plunge in a cold river. The White Star Line will reward him.

Admiral Beatty did not reach the gangplank of the Adriatic until a few minutes before she was scheduled to sail. He was accompanied by Lady Beatty and her niece, Miss Field. He seemed to be startled by the size of the throng of reporters encircling him, remarking: "How many are there of you?" Without waiting for an answer to this he said:

"I am very sorry to go. I have had six weeks of a very happy and hectic time, the greatest hospitality anybody could expect; a remarkable appreciation of the United States for the service of the British Navy."

Conference Work Praised.

The Admiral praised the work of the conference at Washington, saying that the fact that he was going away indicated that it was proceeding in a very satisfactory manner, and said that he understood that Japan had accepted the ratio of naval reduction suggested at the beginning of the conference. In response to the question "When will you come again?" the Admiral laughingly said: "I'll come back as soon as I jolly well made."

Anthony G. De Rothschild, British banker, who was reported to have come here to confer with American financiers over the possibility of a German loan, declined to talk on the object of his visit, because he did not believe in giving out interviews. He did, however, respond to the question "What will be the effect on exchange if the armament conference ends successfully?" by remarking that if he could answer that work again.

A delegation from the Salvation Army gave good-bye to Commissioner Frederick Booth Tucker and Mrs. Booth Tucker, returning to London. Other passengers were Vincennes Harcourt, granddaughter of the late Junius Spencer Morgan; Ian Hay Beth, writer; John C. Neale of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Corporation, taking the title from J. C. Mitchell of Dahinda, Sask., who had held it for two years.

NEGRO SENT TO DIE FOR KILLING CHILD

Louis Lively Convicted by Jersey Jury for Death of 7-Year-Old Girl.

BIGAMIST ALSO GUILTY

Peoppel Sentenced to Life Imprisonment for Slaying
Detective Dinley.

Two men were convicted of murder in New Jersey yesterday. At Mount Holly Louis Lively, a negro, was found guilty of killing Matilda Russo, 7, at Moorestown, N. J., on June 4. He was sentenced at once to die in the electric chair. On his way to the State prison at Trenton he expressed great interest in the fate of his body after his execution.

After Lively's conviction his wife, Marie, indicted for the same crime, was released. She was allowed to see her husband a few moments and on leaving her Lively said, loud enough for the warden to hear:

"Marie, please don't marry a certain party. You know."

Judge Kalisch, before whom the negro was tried, set the date of execution for the week of January 15. The negro is said to have struck the child in anger when finding her stealing pudding in his kitchen.

A jury before Judge Richard Duherly in the Court of Common Pleas, in Jersey City, found George C. Peoppel guilty of murder in the first degree for the killing of Detective James Dinley in Jersey City on November 3. The verdict provided for a sentence of life imprisonment.

Alice McCarthy, 17 years old, with whom Peoppel went through a marriage ceremony in Scranton, Pa., about a year ago, although he had a wife and two children, probably will be released from the Jersey City Jail this morning. It was through the girl that Peoppel was caught, and she has been held as a material witness.

SON IS ADMINISTRATOR OF DAN HANNA ESTATE

Surrogate George A. Slater of Westchester county signed an order in White Plains yesterday appointing Daniel R. Hanna as temporary administrator of the estate of his father, Dan R. Hanna, who died November 3 in his home near Yorktown. The appointment was approved by Mr. Hanna's other sons, Marc and Karl, who with Daniel R. Hanna are joint executors under the will. Daniel R. Hanna furnished a surety bond of $25,000.

In the application for the appointment Mr. Hanna sets forth that the reason therefor is to protect certain personal property left by his father, particularly the horses on the Hanna estate, and a lease on an apartment house in New York. The horses, as well as harness, carriages and automobiles, will be sold in New York, and the lease on the apartment house in 131 Riverside Drive also will be disposed of. So far as is known the application for the appointment had no connection with the contest of the Hanna will, said to be contemplated by Miss June Aris Evans.

THE STORY OF REVILLON FURS

Arctic Owl

The picture shows an Arctic owl in his summer plumage. These birds remain in the Arctic the year round feeding on mice. Natives use them for food, but dislike them for their habit of investigating every trap they see thus releasing the springs and preventing the capture of fur bearing animals. The winter plumage of the bird is entirely white.

In a crowd protect yourself from throat germs

Riding in the crowded car, going along the busy street, sitting in the stuffy office, theatre or school, you are bound to inhale the germs of disease. These germs lodge in the soft tissues of the mouth and throat and if unchecked, may develop into a dangerous ailment.

Formamint, the germ-fighting throat tablet, can be conveniently used at any time or in any place you may be. At the first sign of a sore throat, or when you are exposed to germs, take a tablet and let it dissolve slowly in your mouth. Can be beneficially taken every half hour until throat is relieved.
